Main areas of research

W. Eilenberg is a dedicated Consultant at the Division of Vascular Surgery, Department of General Surgery, and has conducted his PhD project on the role of neutrophils in carotid disease, with a special focus on inflammatory components. In the last years, he has extended his research to the role of neutrophils and NETs in abdominal aortic aneurysms (AAAs). Furthermore, he widens his research area on randomized control trials in AAA, presently metformin as “old medication, novel indication” with a Horizon 2020 grant application as the consortium leader with 10 international centers like Stanford University and Uppsala University. Ongoing since 2018 W. Eilenberg is the project leader of the Vienna MetAAA-trial, the first randomized controlled trial of Metformin in non-diabetic AAA. Since October 2020 he is the project leader of the Aortic PhD Fellowship “Novel Endovascular Devices in an Artificial circulatory specialized Vascular Model in stentgrafts and bridging stents”. His central clinical and research expertise inherits translational atherosclerosis and AAA research including complex aortic endovascular repair.
